Business Resource Center

Located within the Middle Country Public Library in Centereach, the Miller Business Resource Center promotes local economic development by offering information and programming to the business community. The Miller Center's expert staff provides one-on-one assistance that connects businesses and entrepreneurs with the resources they need to succeed. The Center's website offers specialized business databases to both the local community and the Center's regional partners who include businesses in the Town of Brookhaven and members of the HIA-LI.

The Center also offers programs and events throughout the year for Long Island business and professional women including:

- Women's EXPO - a marketplace for women entrepreneurs
- Strictly Business - a business to business networking event
- Miller Business Mornings networking meetings
- Allstate Readiness Series for Financial Empowerment for Women
- Chase Business Bites series

Visit the Center at 101 Eastwood Blvd., Centereach, on the web at www.millerbusinesscenter.org, or call 631-585-9393 x 133 for more information.
